

As the world's leading provider of comprehensive information and business solutions, the LexisNexis Group officially launched its flagship product-Lexis China in 2005, targeting clients from the Government, Chinese and foreign enterprises, Chinese and foreign law firms, and major universities and colleges, to provide the most authoritative, substantive and time-efficient solutions.

Based on the same advanced technology that underpins all of the LexisNexis world-leading legal information platforms, Lexis® China features the most intuitive and effective search platform available. That means you can quickly and easily locate over three million basic laws and regulations in full and judicial decisions since 1949, with the laws and regulations covering top 300 Chinese cities by GDP.

With a focus on legal practices, Lexis® China now also includes a series of practitioner modules. These modules are specifically developed to help you resolve problems in your own practice, using a variety of rich content such as legal overviews, key cases, commentaries, features and hot issues. In addition, Lexis® China comes with a comprehensive range of customized value-added support services, including high-quality customized translation, customized information, online Q&A with well-known legal experts and professional seminars, for the excellent all-around user experience.

Our clients include

- Corporate: in-house counsels, finance, tax, IP and HR professionals
- Law firm: partners, lawyers, consultants
- College: law schools, libraries, schools of business
